Molotov to Offer New Plan For Germany

Big Four Meeting Deadlocked; In Recess Today

GENEVA IP-Success or failure of the Big Four conference of foreign ministers appeared today to hinge on new proposals for the re-unification of Germany promised Wednesday by the Soviets' Vyacheslav M. Molotov.

The conference was in recess today while Secretary of State John Foster Dulles flew to Madrid for lunch with Generalissimo Francisco Franco and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay returned to Paris for consultations with his government

The recess was called because today is All Saints Day, a religious holiday in France.

Israeli Premier Moshe Sharett left today for Israel after pleading dramatically with Molotov "with all the strength in his power" to stop the flow of Communist arms to Israel's Arab enemies. The Middle Eastern crisis has largely overshadowed other issues at Geneva. Conference Appears Deadlocked

The Big Four conference appeared thoroughly deadlocked at the moment.

These were the major developments in the conference at Monday's tumultous session during which Dulles as chairman was forced repeatedly to rap for order: 1. Molotov promised to present further Soviet proposals for the re-tinued division of Germany. Curtain barriers, announced it was lifting passport restrictions on American travel to Iron Curtain

New Security Pact new European security pact calling for a narrower treaty based many. This called for a security pact among 15 nations including the United States; the West said it would study the proposal but would never consent to the permanent division of Germany.

4. The Soviets proposed and the West immediately rejected that the heads of the East and West German governments be invited to sit down at the Geneva conference tait was obvious the conference was approaching a showdown over the key question of reunifying Germany and establishing an European security treaty.

Even with all its length and luxury city driving is easier in a 1956 Lincoln

Lincoln breaks with the past to prove length and luxury can be combined with true sports car maneuverability.

And the acid test of the new Lincoln's astonishing maneuverability is found on crowded city streets. You'll hardly believe the effortless ease with which a Lincoln threads through traffic.

For here is more than a car of length-with the lean look of an arrow. (Over a foot longer in the frame than last year.) Here is more than a car of luxurywith richness in every detail.

Here, above all, is the fine car you can drive. And that's the result of the power of the new Lincoln-285 horsepower-the most powerful Lincoln ever built. It's the result of Lincoln's more advanced transmission that not only gives faster acceleration, but gives it with a smoothness never before known. And it's the result of Lincoln's improved suspension that helps make turning so easy.

Come in and drive the new, long, luxurious Lincoln. Discover how responsive, how maneuverable a truly big car can be. And you'll discover, too, why 1956 is the year of the Lincoln.

out of the burning building into the prison yard and kept there under shotgun guard until early today. The quick action by workhouse guards and 100 city police and detectives prevented a major outbreak. There were no injuries reported and firemen brought the blaze under control shortly after midnight.

Police officials said that a small group of inmates had started the fire in hopes of using it as the stage for a major riot.

But guards acted so quickly that the rebellion never had a chance to get started. The fire blazed for was confined mainly to mattresses in the cells and to the building's ar-paper roof.

The inmates were transferred to cells in the women's building. They showed little inclination to mutiny after the brief uprising and the switchover was completed quickly early today.

"To stay operating, our newspapers will have to find new and additional income," Williams said. "They have only two sources, advertising rates and price of the newspaper to readers. These will have to go up if the papers are not to go out of business.
